

FIG. 100.—The portion of the temporal muscle detached of its basis, turned over the nerve. The facial nerve now lies between the flaps formed by the temporal fascia and the temporal muscle. (Noy. The Laryngoscope, 1922)