

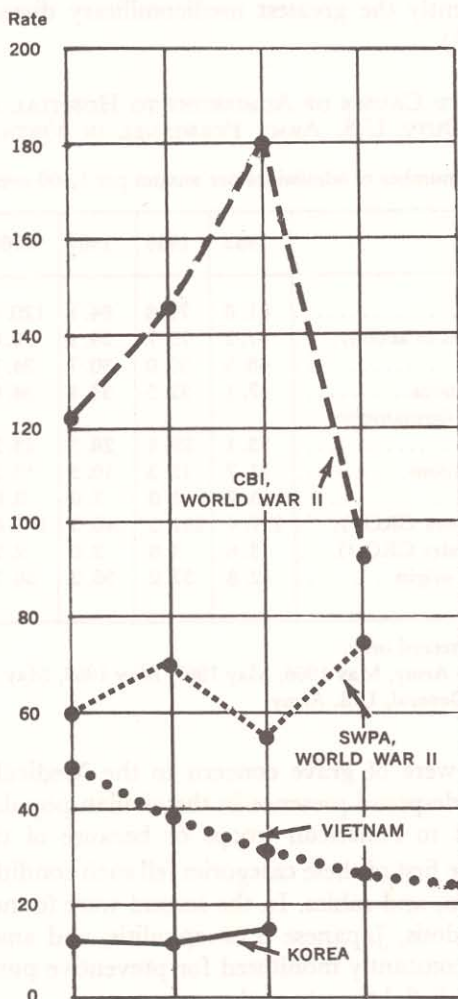

CHART 6—ADMISSIONS, BY YEAR, TO HOSPITAL AND QUARTERS FOR MALARIA IN THREE WARS: WORLD WAR II, KOREA, AND VIETNAM

[Rate expressed as number of admissions per annum per 1,000 average strength]

WORLD WAR II	1942	1943	1944	1945
KOREA	1950	1951	1952
VIETNAM	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969

Sources: (1) World War II: Medical Department, United States Army. Preventive Medicine in World War II. Volume IV. Communicable Diseases Transmitted Chiefly Through the Respiratory and Alimentary Tracts. Washington: U.S. Government Printing Office, 1958. (2) Korea: Korea, A Summary of Medical Experience, July 1950–December 1952. Reprinted from Health of the Army, January, February, and March 1953. Office of the Surgeon General, United States Army. (3) Vietnam: Health of the Army, May 1966, May 1967, May 1968, May 1969, and May 1970. Office of the Surgeon General, United States Army.